

Catco Kids launches the first Childcare 'On-line Training Courses' in partnership with ChildCare Education Institute (USA)

Catco Kids Inc., the leaders in professional development and training in the field of Early Childhood Development, has launched on-line training courses with the ChildCare Education Institute (USA).

These courses include short courses of six weeks as well as three month course offerings that include Child Development Associate programs (CDA), Child Care Director's Credential programs and distance learning. Catco Kids is the first company in Pakistan to pioneer and introduce such on-line training courses.

The CDA program covers all critical areas of child care operations and child development including: health and safety, nutrition, infants and toddlers, guidance and discipline, school age care, classroom management, social/emotional development and cognitive development. CCEI's Online CDA is accredited by the University of Cincinnati. The Online ChildCare Director's Credential (CCDC) is designed to provide professional recognition for early childhood professionals seeking to further their skills and knowledge in the management of a child care center. Distance learning provides the benefit of being widely recognized by industry experts internationally as well as the added benefit of working from home, avoiding traffic and transportation costs associated with commuting to a college campus and finishing courses at a faster pace.

Elaborating on the work that Catco Kids is doing in Pakistan, Ms. Shahida Saleem, President of Catco International and Catco

These courses are offered as distance learning programs that have the advantage of being available anywhere, anytime 24/7, so students are not limited by instructor availability, size or location of classes."
